FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

6,500 WALK TO END GLOBAL POVERTY AT
HOUSTON PARTNERSHIP WALK ON NOVEMBER 8, 2008

Houston, Texas, November 8, 2008 – Over 6,500 participated in the Houston Partnership Walk, an event held annually in five major cities across the U.S. to raise awareness and funds to alleviate global poverty and promote partnerships between America and the developing world. The Walk is an initiative of Aga Khan Foundation U.S.A. (AKF USA) and its network of volunteers in communities across the United States, to involve young and old in a compassionate effort as global citizens to build bridges of hope that reach across boundaries of race, religion, age and gender. Nationwide, about 30,000 participated in Partnership Walk, also held in Chicago, Dallas, Houston and Los Angeles.

The 3-kilometer Walk at Sam Houston Park - Downtown brought together families, friends, students and leaders in government, business, media and the arts for a day of learning activities, fundraising and culturally diverse performances. People from corporations, universities, schools and community organizations took a step to demonstrate their support for ending global poverty. Houston Partnership Walk raised over $760,000. 100% of funds raised at Partnership Walk go directly to the projects supported by the Foundation. No contributions are used for administrative costs. AKF USA is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service code. Over the past 14 years, 250,000 have participated in PartnershipsInAction activities across the U.S. raising $29 million.

In an address to the enthusiastic crowd, David Wallace, Chief Executive Officer for Wallace Bajjali Development Partners, LP, who serves on the Board of Directors and as Vice President of the Texas Economic Development Corporation, and was former mayor of Sugar Land said “There are so many things that I have been proud to learn of what the Aga Khan Foundation is doing by helping individuals, teaching them, not just giving them a handout. That is exactly what the Aga Khan Foundation continues to do year in and year out.” Congressman Al Green, long-time supporter of Partnership Walk, attending nearly every year since it started in Houston, stated “We each have a duty to do what we can to end poverty in the world. What better way to do it than through the Aga Khan Foundation. We can make a difference if we will give. You cannot end poverty without giving. We have raised $29 million over the years in total, we have to make it $100 million so that many more millions can be helped.” Along with other dignitaries Mr. Wallace toured the Village in Action, interactive exhibits on site that showcased the Foundation’s innovative solutions for reducing poverty in Africa and Asia. Other distinguished guest included Thomas Abraham, Sugar Land Councilmember.

An entertainment program celebrating the diversity of world cultures and featuring a multicultural mix of music, dance and performances was hosted by media celebrities Lauren Lanning, producer/reporter for “Wild About Houston” and Sharron Melton, news anchor, ABC 13. The 2008 theme for Partnership Walk, “Planting Our Future,” spotlighted the extraordinary success, expansion and impact of rural support programs pioneered by the Aga Khan Foundation, initiated in northern Pakistan in 1982 and expanded to nine other countries. The story of the AKF’s rural support programs brings to light the power of partnerships and reflects the Foundation's enduring commitment to community participation and grassroots democracy. It embraces the time-tested principle of helping people to help themselves. For over a quarter century, Aga Khan Foundation U.S.A. has focused on planting hope in the lives of people throughout the developing world in the areas of health, education, rural development, civil society and the environment. Today, 2.5 million people have benefited directly from the Foundation's rural support programs worldwide, in over 8,400 village organizations in Afghanistan, India, Kenya, Kyrgyz Republic, Madagascar, Mali, Mozambique, Pakistan, Syria and Tajikistan.

One of the Walk's most inspiring features was the Village in Action, where participants of all ages had an opportunity to engage in interactive activities and learn how people in developing countries create innovative solutions to overcome the challenges of low income, poor health conditions and limited educational opportunities. Through displays, exhibits and hands-on demonstrations, the Village in Action showcased the positive results that are achieved through the Aga Khan Foundation's development programs. Participants took part in exercises and exhibits as if they were traveling to Afghanistan, East Africa, India, Pakistan and Central Asia. Volunteers researched, designed and created the exhibits. Through this process, youth, in particular, gained a deeper understanding of global citizenship and social responsibility.

Partnership Walk, now in its 14th year in the U.S., is a PartnershipsInAction initiative giving individuals the opportunity to actively take part in advancing human dignity and peace around the globe through volunteerism, awareness-raising and contributions. PartnershipsInAction represent AKF USA's growing portfolio of programs including Partnership Golf and Tennis Tournaments, Softball Classic, corporate and professional networking events, film screenings, essay and art competitions, education activities, among others.
